

GOVERNANCE AND MANAGEMENT

Sven-Olof Collin, PhD is an academic in Corporate Governance at the University of Kristianstad. After his PhD at the University of Lund, he joined the University of Kristianstad, then the Linnaeus University, and recently he returned to Kristianstad University. He has been visiting a number of universities in Europe, and recently he is engaged in developing a close collaboration with Ukraine. On December, 2013 Sven-Olof Collin was awarded the title of honorary Professor at the Ukrainian Academy of Banking of the National Bank of Ukraine.

His research activity has been focused on ownership issues and leadership recruitment, where the Swedish corporate groups and municipal corporations were examined. Since then, he has been including the roles of accounting and auditing, and the importance of governance in terms of the ability to develop the corporation. Today, his research is focused on ownership strategies, that is, how the owners form their governance through the usage of the different governing mechanisms that are at hand. Today, the empirical objects also includes family businesses and financial analysts.
